

DEAR Kait,

I know you have your hands full being a single mom, but I want you to know a few things.

Your whole life is about to change. You are about to find love. Not just any love, but THE love of your life.

— It's not going to be easy, though. —

Within a year he's going to get really sick. You're going to be in and out of hospitals and you're going to feel alone. Everything will fall on your shoulders. Alec and you will have to keep going on.

Your partner is going to be battling his own battle that you don't fully understand. You're going to spend a lot of nights crying because you just want things to be normal again. You will watch the light in him fade and barely stay lit most days.

Just hold him. Be patient and kind.

Be his rock — because it's all worth it.

There is a light at the end of the tunnel. Your love will be like no other because of this. You won't be the only one who receives his love — Alec will too. The way their faces light up when playing with each other will all be worth it. You are marrying a very strong individual who loves and cares for you both.

You all have a long road ahead of you. But it's 100% worth it for the love you all share.

LOVE, Kait
